A Unique Public Private Partnership

The Brandi Fenton Memorial Park site (approximately 57 acres) is located on the south side of River Road west of Dodge Boulevard. This park is within the boundaries of the Binghampton Rural Historic Landscape, which is listed in the National Registry of Historic Places.

The history of this land dates back to several centuries of use. In 1898, Mormon farmers settled there followed by ranchers and farmers. These early settlers cultivated fields, orchards, and pastures on the land that is now the Brandi Fenton Memorial Park. Structures from the site's history remain standing and have been incorporated into the design of the park.

Beginning in 2003, the Project Advisory committee began working on the development of the master plan for the park. The committee was comprised of Pima County representatives and citizens representing recreational, equestrian, historical, agriculture and educational interests.

The result of this collaboration is a park that balances the need for public recreation, while retaining the rural character of the site. Existing structures have been renovated and adapted for new park uses, while using building materials, architectural styles and landscaping - all consistent with this historic time period.
